

HELP IS AT HAND

All Schools will

- Listen to parents with their concerns
- Observe what is happening and report back to parents or carers.
- Be accurate in the use of language. If it is not bullying we will say so.
- We will offer advice to support you and your child.
- Maintaining a caring, respectful ethos is a high priority. We all want the best outcome for all children

We believe bullying is persistent and spiteful behaviour by one child (or a group of children) against another.

No school is happy to hear a complaint about bullying. We all work hard to stop this happening through promoting Christian values, through our Personal, Social and Citizenship curriculum, through the work of the School Council and by taking part in special events such as 'Anti Bullying Week'

We are concerned that bullying is a word used by many children and parents when they are really speaking about a falling out among friends.

Many of us are parents ourselves and we know how it feels when children are upset.

We will always try to resolve these problems. However, we are all agreed that children need to learn that if they do quarrel and fight it is very uncomfortable for everyone. There are always consequences for the actions that they take and sometimes the consequences are unpleasant!
